

"...their performance is hot and melancholic at the same time..."

Ebba Hagenberg-Miliu, Genera Anzeiger Bonn

BIO

Short Version

With confident seduction, Astatine leads listeners into the bohemian world of Bucharest in the 1930s and 40s. Lively gypsy tunes, bewitching tango ballads and Romanian classics are presented in modern arrangements with Astatine's sassy vocal style leading the way.

Longer Version

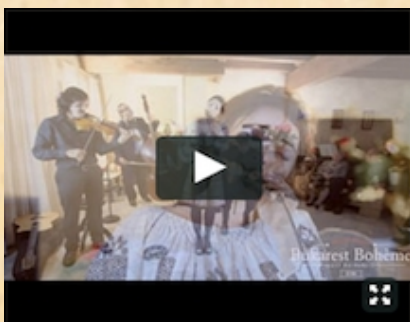

With band Bukarest Bohème, Astatine recreates the exuberant era of Bucharest between the wars. Lively gypsy tunes, tangos and wistful ballads invite a glimpse into a vibrant and alluring world. Astatine's bewitching vocals are accompanied by fiery fiddling from violinist Damian Dudu, precise harmonies from Benjamin Clement on the guitar, fused by the versatile bassist Vilmos Csikós. Together they bring a winning combination of technical talent, feeling for the mystical and expressive Balkan music, and desire to make this fascinating genre accessible to new audiences.

In December 2015, the Quartet released their first album entitled "Argint Viu" (Quicksilver).

Formation

Astatine – Voc
Benjamin Clement – Guitar
Vilmos Csikós – Contrabass

Echoes in the press

Wearing the distinctive embroidered blouse, she stands in front of the microphone with her head bent backwards, as once Maria Tanase has, the most famous Romanian singer ever. (...) Astatine's singing is brighter and just as wholehearted." Ebba Hagenberg-Miliu
